In people of Vineland, New J met the arigenoise of the woman's rights que-tion by a compromise which seems entirely an-to read them. Occasionally, to a compromise which seems entirely un-mable to the lords of creation, and is se-ment with a crusty individual, like the late De sax The constitution of the State confers the pers, but taken as a whole, the world at large right of suffrage upon males exclusively, but entertains a good opinion of them. There are at Vincland, on election day, the ladies are however, comparatively few who estimate permitted to set up a bullot-box of their own w th judges, clerks, and all the usual accompaniments of (anyassing committees, etc. The published and there the comedy ends. At the late election the "canvair" was very active, 216 votes were polled, and the affair passed off in the pleasantest manner. This plan has the great advantage that no evil can possibly grow out of it. The female voters have all the satis action in their "make believe" election tha ould be derived from participation in a re-solitical contest, while the men do their vot-ing in the old way, and are not subjected the proposterous process of soliciting vote rom, or being asked to vote by, thoir wives c aughters. By all means, let the women c he period 'play election' in the Vineland
